MCKINLEY EXPENSES IN CAMPAIGN DISCLOSED

Public Utilities Agent Handled Cash Primary Probers Learn—Poll Workers Paid $5.00 to $15.00 Each

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Public Utilities Agent L. E. Fisher of the Illinois Traction Co. "handled the money" for the campaign of Senator William B. McKinley, Southern, Illinois, Rufus Shepherd today told the senate primary investigating committee.

Shepherd said Fisher's corporation was a "Studebaker interest" and that he furnished $2500 for sixty-one precincts in East St. Louis.

"We paid poll workers from $5 to $15 the first witness at resumption of the investigation declared. 'I don't know how many workers we had.'"

Fisher did not say where he obtained the money, Shepherd said. "I understood he furnished money for other parts of the city but I don't know how much," said the witness.

Chairman Reed showed great interest in the development because of previous testimony that public utilities magnates, including Samuel Insull had furnished most of the money for the republican senatorial campaign of Frank L. Smith and for George Brennan, Democratic senatorial candidate.

McKinley himself, is a large owner of public utilities down state.

MISSOURI, KANSAS, OKLAHOMA, MONTANA HOLDING PRIMARIES

Senatorial Races Feature Voting In Three States

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 3.—Voters of four western states—Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Montana—are selecting today national and state candidates for the November elections with issues centering about the wet and dry question in Missouri and Montana; past administration in Kansas and personalities in Oklahoma.

Missouri is choosing candidates for the U. S. Senate short and long term with major party strife looming up, on prohibition. Four of the six candidates are avowed dries, one defines himself as an ardent wet and the other regards prohibition as not a political question.

Congressional nominees are to be selected as well as those for many state offices.

Kansas is refraining generally from issues of national import, decides on gubernatorial, senatorial and congressional prospects on the merits of past records and with only hints of Klan influences which two years ago split the Republican ranks.

Oklahoma also offered pronounced issues, selects national, state and county candidates from a field cluttered with numerous entries. Most interest is in the race for the governorship to succeed the incumbent Martin Trapp, declared ineligible by the state supreme court.

Of second Oklahoma interest in the senatorial contest in which J. C. Walton, impeached governor, one woman and four other Democratic candidates compose the major opposition to Senator J. W. Harrell, Republican.

Montana, in an "odd" political year, nominates candidates for two congressional seats and polls sentiment on a Volstead issue, wets and dries having the majority in the number of candidates.

A heavy vote was expected in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Heads Directors

Viscountess Rhondda, director of twenty-eight corporations, was elected president of the London Institute of Directors.

INTEREST EVIDENT WHEN WEST VIRGINIA PICKS CANDIDATES

Prohibition Issue Of Campaign Of Solons

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 3.—Much interest was evident in the West Virginia primary elections today as voters selected their candidates for congress and the legislature.

Two of the congressional candidates have injected the prohibition issue into their campaigns.

Former Rep. Rosenbloom, an advocate of modification of the Volstead act, is opposing Rep. Carl G. Bachman for the nomination in the first district, while Rep. Frank L. Bowman is opposed by Harry H. Howell, a friend of modification, in the second district. All four are Republicans.

Representatives Bachman, John Wolverton and James French Strother, all Republicans, are candidates for re-nomination in the first, second and third districts. The only Democratic congressman from West Virginia, is seeking re-nomination.

Both parties will have nominees for each of the congressional offices, fifteen state senatorships and sixty-eight members of the state house of delegates.

DOUBLE SUICIDE AND MURDER UNCOVERED

ADRIAN, Mich., August 3.—Authorities today were investigating the apparent double suicide of John Boyer, 55 and his daughter, 25 and the slaying of his six year old grand child.

Entering Boyer's home late yesterday at the request of a neighbor Sheriff A. T. Wilson found the three bodies. A note by that of Boyer said his daughter had hanged herself Saturday and that he had cut the body down and had used the same rope to hang himself. No mention was made in the note of the child which had been killed by strangulation.

FAMOUS COMPOSER INITIATED INDIAN

SANTE FE, N. M., Aug. 3.—Charles Wakefield Cadman composer of music based on Indian melodies, will become one of the people he has long studied and loved, when he is initiated into the Hopi Indian tribe at the Santa Fe Fiesta beginning here today.

Cadman, who gained popularity with his song, "The Land of the Sky Blue Water," and was recognized as a writer of Indian operas when his "Shanewis" was produced at the Metropolitan in New York, has spent the last fifteen years in New Mexico, Colorado and California, studying Indian music at first hand.

CHARLES SWIFT AND CLAIKE DUX MARRY

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The woman with the golden voice and the man with the Midas touch of Chicago's stock yards—Charles Swift and his bride, the former opera star Claire Dux left today for their honeymoon at Viannio, Cape Cod, Mass.

The couple was wed at sundown last night in the chapel of the University of Chicago. There was a short program of wedding music and then the service was performed by the Rev. Theodore G. Soares, chaplain of the University.

The chapel was elaborately decorated in chrome yellow while the bride and her lone attendant, Mrs. Walter Winterburg, San Francisco, both wore apricot yellow crepe. Dr. Winterburg gave Miss Dux in marriage. Harold H. Swift, a brother of the groom was the best man

ABANDONS ATTEMPT EXHAUSTED WHEN IN REACH OF SUCCESS

American Swimmer Makes Brave Effort Against Water

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 3.—Clara Belle Barrett, today admitted the English channel's ability to defeat her when after a marvelous swimming performance that brought her within two miles of victory she abandoned her effort to swim to France.

According to her pilot, she decided never to make the gruelling attempt again.

The official time of the American girl's swim was twenty-one hours and forty minutes. She started from Dover at 7:55 a. m. Monday and abandoned her attempt at 5:35 a. m. today. The actual distance covered probably never will be known since cross tides and currents would add many miles to the bare twenty lying between Dover and the closest point on the French shore.

Captain James S. Learmonth, the British pilot who was aboard the tug which accompanied Miss Barrett, was tremendously impressed by the American girl's feat.

"We couldn't see five yards ahead of us because of the fog," he said. "She must have marvelous staying powers. I asked her if she would try again and she told me she would come back."

Handicapped by more or less slender finances and without the services of better known trainers, everything was against Mrs. Barrett, except her magnificent physique and splendid determination.

She learned to swim at Rye, N. Y., where her parents went during the summers before her father's death. When she was six years old she was an accomplished swimmer.

The idea of a channel swim had been in her mind for several years. Last summer she read of the ineffectual attempts made by other channel swimmers and determined to develop the necessary endurance.

Miss Barrett was not backed by a wealthy patron or swimming association but friends and relatives "chipped in" the amounts necessary for training purposes and the accompanying tug.

Miss Barrett made her attempt to swim the channel alone and it seemed she was going to be the first woman to negotiate the treacherous waters separating England and France. She reached mid-channel in almost record time.

Indication that she was fighting bad weather came when Dr. George Brewster, a London physician, who set out from a point five miles east of Dover at 11 a. m. was forced to give up late in the afternoon. A strapping six-footer, weighing 185 pounds, she is built to battle with the heavy waters and her reserve strength sustained her, long after a less robust woman would have failed.

BOY BURNED AT STAKE BY PALS

WHITING, Ind., Aug. 3.—George Cannac, 9, is dead, the victim of his playfellows, who "burned him at the stake."

He died before rescuers could reach him.

The group of playmates decided upon George as the captive to be burned in the "Indian pageant." He was tied to a stake but the fire wouldn't light. Some one poured turpentine on the wood at his feet and on his clothing. He was a sheet of flames a moment later. Police were unable to learn the names of his companions who fled screaming when the fire ignited.

COSHOCTON CALM AS CONFESSED SLAYER REMOVED FROM JAIL

Crowds Threaten So Prisoner Taken to Neighboring City

COSHOCTON, O., Aug. 3.—Coshocton was quiet today after a night during which more than 500 townspeople, aroused by the murder of 10-year-old Gertrude D'Ostroph, milled in the streets until after midnight and authorities entertained fears for the safety of Robert E. Thompson, who confessed he assaulted and strangled the child.

The crowd dispersed after midnight when it was learned that Thompson had been removed from the county jail here and Sheriff Marquard had been in telephone communication with state officials inquiring the possibility of obtaining troops, if the occasion demanded.

One man was arrested charged with disturbing the peace after he had gone about the streets shouting of giant firecrackers. He gave his name as Frank Slaughter.

Feeling in Coshocton was first aroused when the child's body was discovered late Saturday. Posses immediately were organized to hunt for the slayer and this resulted in the arrest of Thompson in Mount Vernon and his confession.

Arraigned late yesterday Thompson pleaded guilty to a charge of murder. Citizens gathered about the streets discussing the development and became angered until shortly before midnight a large group was about the jail.

Officials in conversation with state guard officers in Columbus were told that troops were stationed at Zanesville and could be dispatched immediately, if needed.

The crowd, however, dissolved when it was learned that Thompson had been taken to a neighboring jail for safety.

WEATHER BUREAU TO HAVE AIR STATIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Twenty-one new pilot balloon stations will be established along the civil airways by the Weather Bureau to aid air navigation, it is announced by the Bureau.

The balloons will be sent up along the air routes to give accurate conditions of the air currents and provide weather forecasts so that an airplane pilot may know weather conditions over his route four to six hours in advance.

The balloon stations are: Chicago, Chicago, Reno, New York, Dallas, Minneapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis, Jacksonville, San Francisco, Seattle, Los Angeles, Detroit, Boston, Miami, Atlanta, Portland, Ore., Oklahoma City and Cincinnati.

The first ten are expected to be in operation during the latter part of the summer and the remainder by November.

DEFENSE DEPENDS ON READINESS TO BEAR ARMS

Twelve years ago today the world war had begun. Germany had invaded France; Russian troops had invaded Germany.

In the following article, written for the United Press, Hanford McNider, acting secretary of war, discusses military developments, in relation to America, resulting from the war and post war periods.

Mrs. Hall Released on Bail in Noted Murder

This picture was taken when Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall (center) walked out of the jail at New Brunswick, N. J., free on bail on charges of murdering her husband, Rev. Edward Hall, and Eleanor Mills, his choir singer. She was accompanied home by her cousin, Mrs. Edwin Carpenter, and her lawyers, W. R. Studer, Russell E. Watson and Timothy N. Pfeiffer.

EIGHTY SEVENTH FAIR GETS UNDER WAY; JUDGING STARTS WEDNESDAY

The Greene County fair will begin the actual celebration of its eighty-seventh birthday Wednesday.

Tuesday was the opening day but the speed events and judging in the various departments will not begin until Wednesday.

Secretary J. Robert Bryson announces the complete program for judging for premium awards Wednesday.

Mules and road horses, Holstein, Jerseys and Guernsey cattle as well as all sheep will be judged Wednesday. Also Poland China, Spotted Poland China and Hampshires and poultry judging will be started.

Judging will also start in the vegetable and Art Hall and in the dairy calf department of the Boys' and Girls' Club for which fifteen entries have been received by the secretary.

During the races in the afternoon, musical entertainment between heats will be furnished by the New Burlington Band.

In the amusement line, the Gooding Amusement Co., again has charge of the riding concessions and it is announced a new ride called the "Hey Day" will be a leading feature.

PROSECUTION WILL ASK THREE INDICTMENTS IN MURDER CASE

Two Men and One Woman Will be Victims Special Counsel Admits—Two Men Will Not Be Arrested

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 3.—Important evidence previously possessed by the state in the Hall-Mills case, has been lost but it is expected, however, that prosecution will ask three indictments—two men and one woman—Special Prosecutor Simpson is credited with having admitted today.

Recovery of the evidence and search for the relapsed or lost parts of the documentary record of the first investigation and a hunt for further exhibits, including the pistol of Willie Stevens, is to occupy the attention of the new prosecutor.

Senator Simpson admitted it is unlikely that the state will arrest either of the two men against whom indictments will be asked. He said that the policy of the prosecutor at present could be best served by permitting them to remain at liberty.

The identity of the persons to be charged with connection with the murder of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, was admitted by Simpson to be known to the state although no clue to their names has been given.

Several witnesses whose testimony in the various investigations was found removed from the wardens' safe in Somerset County jail, may be recalled for examination by the prosecutor said.

Prosecutor Simpson interviewed Mrs. James Gibson, the "pig woman" an important state witness who said she saw a woman in gray hair and a bushy haired man at the murder scene. Simpson said he had been deeply impressed by the woman's story.

FARM BUREAU HEADS OPENING SESSIONS

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3.—A two day meeting of presidents and secretaries of county farm bureaus opened today.

Subjects to be discussed were: Co-operative livestock marketing by F. G. Keener. Well marketing by J. F. Walker. Efficiency by E. B. Mason. Public relations by Frank C. Dean.

Traffic by C. S. Long.

Relation of industry to agriculture was discussed by G. B. Chandler, executive secretary of the Ohio chamber of commerce.

Re-appraisal, the proposed city planning amendment and rural police will be discussed.

TO EXHIBIT SIRE

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 3.—Exhibition of their herd sires will be made by Guernsey Breeders from various sections of Ohio at the Wayne County Fair Thursday. A dairy cow trial, the first of its kind to be held in Ohio will be a feature of the day's program.

A court scene will be enacted in the grand stand when two purebred cows are to show cause for retaining their registration papers.

SEEK NEW EVIDENCE IN MELLETT MURDER AS ONE STORY FAILS

Mystery Witness's Yarn Collapses Under Investigation

CANTON, O., Aug. 3.—Detectives investigating the murder of Don Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News began a search for new evidence today as the story of Steve Kascholk, the "mystery witness" held in county jail showed possible weaknesses.

Kascholk gave himself up soon after the murder and told of being hired with Patrick McDermott for whom a nation-wide search is under way to "beat up" Mellett naming their employers. He withdrew the last minute, he said, but McDermott remained in Canton until after the assassination.

John Rudner, Massillon and Carl Studer, Canton, two of the men accused by Kascholk of plotting underworld revenge against Mellett have come forward voluntarily with alibis. Both denied acquaintance with either Kascholk or McDermott.

While every angle of Kascholk's story was investigated and the search for McDermott continued, the citizens committee appointed to straighten out Canton's political tangle held another secret meeting. Reports of dissension among investigators persisted despite announcements yesterday that complete harmony was restored.

COMMITTS SUICIDE AFTER TWO MURDERS

CINCINNATI, August 3.—Ray Rees, 45, killed himself at his home in Felicity, near here today shortly before Sheriff Fred Creswell arrived to question him regarding the murder at Rural last night of Mrs. Mamie King and Ott Elk.

The couple was shot to death at midnight as they were sitting in an automobile.

Rees, a married man, was alleged to have been friendly with Mrs. King.

The couple was sitting in Elk's car, parked in a farm yard near Felicity when another car drew alongside. Its occupant fired a volley of shots and drove away.

Joseph L. Broadwell, a farmer near whose home the shooting occurred found the woman and man dead a few minutes after he was awakened by the shooting.

Mrs. King was separated from her husband. Elk was unmarried.

LABOR PAPER IS TO FAVOR MISS ALLEN

COLUMBUS, Aug. 3.—Campaign managers for Judge Florence Allen, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator today were helping distribute 500,000 copies of a special edition of "Labor," official newspaper of the railroad brotherhoods published at Washington, which endorses Miss Allen and urges her nomination.

"Labor is not supporting Judge Florence Allen for the senate because she is a woman," the paper says. "Her sex gives her no claim to office and she would be the first to say so. She never has asked for favors."

"Labor is supporting Judge Allen because she is incomparably the best and biggest 'man' available for the job. In brains, character and experience she towers head and shoulders above the field."

Former Senator Adlai Pomeroy is severely scored in the labor paper.

ENTERTAINS SCRIBE WITH EXECUTIONS

TSITSIHAR, Manchuria, Aug. 3.—So pleased was General Chang, commander of the local garrison, at the unusual visit of an American newspaper correspondent to this remote point that he ordered out three condemned criminals and was about to lop off their heads by way of celebration when the visitor hastily intervened and explained he didn't require that form of entertainment.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH WILL BE RETURNED AFTER ITS SEIZURE

Priest Suspended By Archbishop For Attempted Schism

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—The United Press was informed today that Alex W. Weddell, United States consul general had not lodged any protest here regarding the seizure of the Mexican Episcopalian Church of San Jose de Gracia.

The disappearance of the image constitutes a potential cause of trouble since it is most revered among the ignorant Indians and should they learn of the images' absence, there might be some difficulty in controlling the situation.

It was estimated today that ninety per cent of the churches of Mexico were in the hands of the municipal authorities. The local health department announced churches in the federal district and the cathedral would be cleaned and fumigated this week.

Under the overtures of foreign and national prelates, of new sons and of some Catholics, have mysteriously appeared signs of papal bearing the following sentence:

"He who denies being a catholic is a renegade because in the baptismal font he swore to follow Jesus Christ."

Native servants seemed to be strangely affected when they heard about the ships.

Thirty-nine priests who refused to register in accordance with the new laws and three laymen composing the first committee of the Catholic League for the defense of religious liberty were to have legal hearings this week.

It was understood today that the church which was seized by the authorities under the mistaken conception that it had been abandoned by the priests would be returned to ecclesiastical state.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—Maurice Jacobo Calvo, archpriest attached to the Basilica of Guadalupe, has been suspended from his position by Archbishop Moray Del Rio, on an attempt to provoke a schism among Catholics at Villa Guadalupe making an effort to renew religious services in disobedience to the collective pastoral letter calling for the abandonment of churches.

Angel Vivanco, a prominent Catholic at Villa Guadalupe, began the attempt, it is understood, influencing Calvo and the three laymen who also were suspended, to join him. Catholic laypeople opposed the move. The suspension was urged by Estaban Soto Ruiz, president of the court of honor of the Knights of St. Mary of Guadalupe.

An unconfirmed report that an American protestant minister had been attacked in the town of Irapuato, state of Guanajuato, circulated in the city today. One version of the story said the minister had been hanged and his church burned.

It was learned today that the sacred image of the Virgin of Guadalupe, patron saint of Mexico, had disappeared from the Basilica of Guadalupe, a spurious one replacing the original. Plans to remove the sacred image were made at the recent Eucharist Congress at Chicago and a box to receive it, was brought from Chicago but was found to be too small for its purpose. Another box was obtained and the image was taken away.

While every angle of Kascholk's story was investigated and the search for McDermott continued, the citizens committee appointed to straighten out Canton's political tangle held another secret meeting. Reports of dissension among investigators persisted despite announcements yesterday that complete harmony was restored.

DIRECTOR NAMED FOR COUNTY NORMAL SCHOOL AT CEDARVILLE

Miss Edna Howland, West Union, O., was recently elected by Greene County Board of Education as director of the County Normal School. It is announced that Miss Howland's home is in West Union, but for the past five or six years she has been conducting the Warren County Normal School, located at Waynesville.

Announcement of her election to the position at Cedarville is made in connection with the statement that the Warren County Normal at Waynesville, the Madison County Normal at London, together with a number of others will be abolished. This is in line with the program of the State Director of Education, who would merge smaller and more isolated schools with the larger units where better instruction can be given.

Cedarville, because of its excellent advantages, has been selected as one of the points for centralization of teacher training and an assistant director has already been granted by the State Department under the present plan of combining classes with the college. Some four or five different instructors will be available to the student absolutely free of tuition. Among those who will teach in the County Normal are Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College; Edna M. Howland, Prof. H. H. Smith, Mrs. Walter Corrt, (music) and one or more other members of the faculty not yet decided upon. This makes about the largest county normal faculty yet announced in the state. School opens September 8, 9:30 a. m. Students are enrolling now both with the County Superintendent at Xenia and Dr. McChesney at Cedarville College.

This teacher training work is unusually popular now, according to County Superintendent H. C. Aultman, because of the free tuition and the unusually low cost of living at the college. Supt. Aultman is arranging for a minimum school rate on the Pennsylvania from points along the line from London to Waynesville to accommodate those wishing to live at home. Class schedules will be arranged to suit the trains.

SENATOR FESS WILL ADDRESS VETERANS AT DAYTON PICNIC

U. S. Senator S. D. Fess, Yellow Springs, will deliver the principal address at the annual picnic of the Veterans' Republican Club, Dayton, Tuesday night at Memorial Hall at 8 o'clock.

Several thousand Republicans as well as members of other political organizations, are expected to attend the affair, at which Senator Fess will speak on "A Soldier in Government."

Senator Fess will register at the Hotel Miami and will be escorted to the hall by a guard of honor.

Following the addresses Republican candidates will be introduced at the gathering. Supper will be later served.

Committee in charge of the affair consists of Howard Shellenberger, chairman; D. R. Reed, Fred A. Shank, and Clarence Hussman. Howard Heald is president of the club.

DEWINE-BURGESS

WEDDING IN SPRINGFIELD

Miss Agnes Marie Dewine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dewine, 45 W. State St., Springfield, formerly of Yellow Springs, and Mr. Nathan Leffen Burgess, Hyde Park, Boston, Mass., were united in marriage Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock at St. Raphael Church, Springfield. Monsignor Buckley officiated.

The bride's gown was a new Fall model of sunset georgette over a rose georgette slip. The trimming was ecru lace, fashioned along straight lines. She wore a Fall hat of blonde silk and velvet trimmed with rose lace. Her slippers and hose were blonde shade and she carried an arm bouquet of Killarney roses.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Bancroft, following the ceremony. Covers were laid for thirty guests who were members of the immediate families. Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. Burgess left for a wedding trip to Boston, New York and Philadelphia. Mrs. Burgess' traveling suit was of navy blue with a felt hat to match. Her accessories were of the parchment shade.

Mr. and Mrs. Burgess will reside, on their return from their wedding trip, in Dayton, where Mr. Burgess is engaged as an architect. Later they will go to Boston to live.

Mrs. Burgess attended Antioch Academy while residing in Yellow Springs. She later graduated from St. Raphael High School, Springfield, in 1924.

Mr. Burgess is a graduate of the Plymouth High School at Cambridge, Mass., and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He came to Antioch College at the time it was re-organized and was an instructor there in art.

STUDIO SEASON ENDED WITH PROGRAM

A contest that aroused considerable interest among violin students at the Xenia Music Studios, was brought to a close with a musical at the studios, Saturday afternoon. Prizes were given in both the high school and junior departments to the students who practiced the greatest number of hours during the month of July.

Miss Mildred Ary came out first in the junior department, Miss Martha Anna Baughn running her a close second while in the high school department, it was a tie between James Malavazos and Miss Margaret Zeiner.

Those taking part in the musical were: Virginia Babb, Katherine Maxwell, Mildred Ary, Rowena McKay, Virginia St. John, Marguerite Zeiner, and James Malavazos, while an interesting paper on old violins was read by Miss Lindsey.

After August 7, the studios will be closed until the beginning of the fall term, September 1, Miss Lindsey taking a much needed vacation.

HIGH TEMPERATURE AND PRECIPITATION RECORDED IN JULY

Extreme heat during the month of July cut down the temperature deficiency which has been prevailing since January 1 while precipitation for the month was the highest since 1907 according to the report of W. W. Neffert, Dayton observer.

The mean highest temperature for the month was 85.4 degrees and mean lowest temperature 64.3 degrees for a mean temperature for the month of 74.8 degrees. This was exceeded by the month of July in 1923, 1921, 1919, 1916, 1914 and in other preceding years but is rated among the highest since 1883.

The highest temperature was on July 21 when it reached 97 degrees while the highest temperature in July, 1925, was 95 on July 2. The lowest temperature this year was 54 on July 11 and the greatest daily range was 31 degrees July 1. Normal average temperature for July is 75.4 and the average this year was 74.8.

Precipitation for the month was 5.03 inches, highest since 1883 with the exception of 1907 when the precipitation was 7.01 inches. The greatest precipitation in twenty-four hours was 1.51 inches July 6. Normal for the month is 3.23 and the excess this month 1.75 which leaves an accumulated deficiency of 4.61 since January 1.

The prevailing wind direction was northeast and the maximum velocity was maintained July 6 when the wind blew at the rate of sixty miles an hour for five minutes. There were twelve clear days thirteen partly cloudy, six cloudy and thirteen on which .01 or more inches of rain fell occurred. The percentage of possible sunshine was 71. Thunderstorms occurred July 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 18, 22 and 23.

CONFISCATE ALCOHOL CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—George King, truck driver was arrested by federal prohibition agents when they caught him with eighteen drums of alcohol on his truck. He was loading from a freighter in the Nickel Plate railroad yards. The officers confiscated 3750 gallons of alcohol.

BENJAMIN KIEFER SUMMONED TUESDAY

Following an extended illness, Benjamin Warren Kiefer died at his home three miles north of Yellow Springs Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock on the sixty-fifth anniversary of his birth. Death is attributed to a complication of diseases. Surviving is a son and daughter, Ruth and Wilbur Kiefer, at home, and two sisters, Mary and Ione Kiefer.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, standard time, at the residence, The Rev. Joseph Patton, pastor of the Yellow Springs M. E. Church, of which Mr. Kiefer was a member, will conduct the services. Interment will be made in Fern Cliff Cemetery, Springfield.

FORMER XENIAN IS SUDDENLY CALLED

Word has been received here of the sudden death of Willard Fay, former Xenian, which occurred at his home in Bellingham, Wash., last Saturday. Details of his death were not received.

Mr. Fay resided in Xenia a number of years ago. He was connected with the Miami Powder Co., at Goes Station, when a young man. Funeral services were held in the West.

Coda M. Hilliard, in her suit for divorce from Harry Lee Hilliard, filed in Common Pleas Court, charges gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty in that she has had to literally support herself since her marriage; her husband has never purchased clothing for her and has deserted her on two occasions.

Plaintiff also claims she has always paid the house rent and provided most of the food for the table. Her husband has also threatened her life and once struck her, she further avers.

They were married September 10, 1921 and have no children. Plaintiff asks for recovery of her personal property and asks to be restored to her former name of Hendlen.

ACCIDENTS INCREASE

Those who had hoped that increased attention given to safety upon the streets and highways would be responsible for a lowering of the national death and accident list can take little comfort in the figures by the Bureau of Statistics Committee of the National Safety Council.

Last year's fatalities were 22,500, an increase of 2200 over the record of 1924. Excluding fatalities resulting from collisions with street cars and railroad trains, they increased from 17,600 in 1924 to 19,800 in 1925. Grade crossing fatalities jumped from 1688 to 1784. The death rate to the 100,000 population was 14.9 in 1923, in 1924 was 15.7, and in 1925, 17.2. While the increase from 1923 to 1924 was 5 per cent, that between 1924 and 1925 was 10 per cent. Traffic fatalities are not only increasing in number but they are increasing also in quality.

In only one way has it been figured the accidents were decreasing and that was in proportion to the number of automobile registrations. On this basis there has been a decrease for several years but the 1925 figures show almost no lowering of those in 1924. It is difficult to find a reassuring note in the entire report.

This much is true; while the death rate for children under fifteen still presents one of the most serious aspects of the situation, it increased but 3 1-2 per cent in 1925 while the rate for adults went up 14 per cent. These facts seem to indicate that safety education in the schools is having an effect, a result that is abundantly corroborated by the individual experience of particular cities in which such work is being carried on.

It is because of the conditions revealed in these figures that safety campaigns are being conducted. Not until their terrible import is recognized to the point where remedial measures will be taken in every state and city will the upward curve be broken.

WHY SCHOOLS COST MORE

The rising cost of education has given many citizens a great deal to think about. Very naturally, too, because there is no public undertaking in which the citizen should be more interested, there is nothing which affects him more permanently than do the schools in his community. When he has reached an age at which they no longer touch him directly, they reach him through his children. Schools are the means by which an orderly social progress is maintained.

Whatever may be the story told by a comparison of education costs today with those of an earlier time, the situation is not properly understood unless it is kept in mind that the school today attempts to do definitely more than did the school of three or four decades ago. There is almost no comparison between what the school considered its duty to the child a generation ago, and what it does for the boy and girl of today.

If it were nothing more than the fact that children today go to school until later in life than they did formerly, even that might be sufficient cause for what is mistakenly called the rising cost of education. As compared to the number of pupils who finished the eighth grade three decades ago who go this far at the present time is astonishingly large.

We direct all their learning and activities to the end that they may become not merely intelligent and understanding parents when this duty comes to them; we try to lay in the schools the proper foundation for intelligent citizenship on their part. Nor is our educational aim directed to giving these boys and girls something for the future. Much more than the school of yesterday did, does the school of today look after the present needs of the child.

A MAN'S INTENTIONS

Whatever a man's problem and handicaps there is a word that describes the one thing he can do and must do. That word is "Forward." The man who lets nothing stop his steady advance need fear no future obstacles. His motor is his will and no form can long chain and impoverish that. Success comes sometimes when least expected. It is missed sometimes because of lack of faith in its existence. But he who advances, whose watchword is "forward", is never surprised at prosperity. He welcomes it when it comes for he has long expected it and is prepared to meet its responsibilities.

Success is wholly a matter of mental attitude toward success. The half-hearted idea that it may work out never made a success of anything. Success comes from the determination at the beginning to be successful and then by being it. It isn't swelled-headedness to believe oneself bigger than anything which may stand in the way of success but to believe that it is necessary to success. Success is determined by determination and keeping a-going.

Goethe in his "Life and Character" said "Strictly speaking, everything depends upon a man's intentions."

PLEA FOR THE DAY
Let me go through this day
Brave, true and tender;
Let me win, down the way
Something of splendor.

Let me not work in hate,
Greedy for treasure;
Lord, keep my pathway straight,
Square to the measure.

Surely one day I can
Stand to my labor;
Fair to my fellowman,
Fair to my neighbor.

Is it too much to ask
One day of beauty?

Strength for an honest task,
Courage for duty?

One day of friendly thought
One day of cleanness,
One day lived through with naught
Checked with meanness?

Grant me a day serene,
Well-lived and splendid;
Clean at the dawn, and clean
When it is ended.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES

Mrs. C. A.: "I have had a porcelain-topped table for only a year, yet it is covered with rings and marks which ruin the appearance of its finish. What will remove these marks?"

Answer: I am afraid that you did not know when you first bought the table, that you must never let the juice from acid fruits or vegetables touch the porcelain. Lemon juice, tomato juice, rhubarb juice etcetera have evidently eaten off the shiny surface, leaving the marred effect you describe. There is nothing to be done now, to restore its former smooth shiny finish.

Mrs. H. K.: "Where can I buy the timbale irons you referred to recently in the column?"

Answer: At any large department store, in the kitchen supplies department. You neglected to enclose a stamp in your letter or I would have answered you personally. I cannot suggest the names of such stores in this column, as it would be advertising.

Bride: "What do you, personally, can in the way of fruits?"

Answer: Here are this summer's choices: All fruits and berries I prepare as for table use, then precook them a few minutes to shrink them before packing them (hot) in the warm sterilized jars. I add the hot sirup at once. This sirup I make by bringing to a boil one part sugar and three parts water mixed together. This I use for pineapples. When I can huckleberries, loganberries, raspberries, cherries, dewberries, blackberries and apricots I use a medium sirup made by bringing to the boiling point one part sugar and two parts water. Peaches to my mind, require a thick sirup made by boiling equal parts of water and sugar and I also use this sirup with gooseberries.

Mrs. S.: "When I scald tomatoes to remove their skins, I invariably get a soft tomato as a result. How can I keep them firm?"

Answer: Place the tomatoes in a pan, stand the pan in your sink, and add enough scalding water to cover them. Drain off this hot water at once, and add cold to cover. By this method you will not be troubled by softness.

East Side - West Side

—OF—

New York

By Jack O'Donnell

"One touch of nature makes the whole world kin."

It was at the world's busiest corner—Forty-second St. and Broadway—at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. And it was Wednesday—a matinee day. Taxicabs were fighting each other for a second's advantage in the slow moving traffic. Cops were yelling commands to timid or over-brave drivers. Pedestrians were weaving in and out, trying to cross the motorized thoroughfare.

Along came a farmer with a wagon-load of hay. The wagon was considerably older than the farmer and groaned under its heavy load. Back of the hay was one of the vehicles—an old Victoria with a red velvet top on the driver's box. Just as the hay wagon started forward with the West bound traffic a rear wheel threw up the sponge and crumpled, blocking traffic.

Motorists honked their horns; cops cursed under their breath; taxi-drivers yelled insulting remarks at the poor farmer. Everybody was angry. Even the pedestrians who had to walk around the load of hay. But in the rear was a happy horse. He just moved up to the hay and, spreading his front legs, began making this a Broadway holiday.

In a few minutes everybody was watching the horse attack the hay and forgetting his or her own annoyance. A crowd gathered—as crowds will in New York—and cheered the old nag on. And the man on the box made no effort to interfere with his animals' meal. For twenty minutes, while the broken-down wagon waited for an emergency crew to arrive up and shove it aside, the crowd munched his hay and the crowd stood by to see that he got fair play.

A man next to me said: "Gosh! That takes me back to my kid days in the middle West. Gee, it's good to see a load of hay. I almost envy that horse!"

For several years Leon A. Friedman, erstwhile press agent for the Folies and now doing the gushing for George White's "Scandals," has been mystified by the number of requests he received for complimentary seats to the Folies coming from persons who, generally on the telephone, told him they were from Circleville, O.

And for the same number of years another Leon A. Friedman, brother of the famous saxophone king, Ted Lewis, of Circleville, O., has been wondering, on his infrequent visits to his old home town, why it was so many of his former friends bowed coldly, or not at all, to him, when he walked down Ohio St.

The other night both mysteries were cleared up when the two Leon A. Friedmans met at the home of a mutual friend down Greenwich Village way. When mist had cleared away Friedman, the press agent, poked his nose into the sleeve of his coat and laughed. "Well," he opined, "I guess you got the worst of this. All I did was to tell your friends nothing doing but it will take you a lifetime to explain that you ain't me."

MANCHESTER MILL WORKERS LEAVE FOR WAKES OBSERVANCE

MANCHESTER, Eng., Aug. 3.—Cottonmill sirens in fourteen Lancashire mill towns shrieked this afternoon to indicate that the famous Lancashire "wakes"—the ten days migratory holiday of the Northern mill-hands—was formally begun.

Not a mill will start up until a week from Tuesday when their employees will have returned having spent the last farthing—all except fifty cents left prudently under the clock at home—every penny which they have saved for the annual "wakes."

The total sum thus saved and disbursed is enormous. Figures published early in July for fourteen Lancashire towns showed that the workers, in spite of the strike and of short hours in the American cotton-spinning section, had saved nearly $5,000,000 for their holidays. Similar figures from mill towns in Yorkshire, Cheshire and other industrial districts bring the totals up to many millions.

This money is collected by weekly subscriptions at every mill throughout the year and is a big item in Lancashire and Yorkshire banking. It amounts to about $10 a head or around $50 a family. It is saved desperately and has nothing to do with the family's ordinary savings account. The banks' pass-books, plainly label it "wakes money." It was drawn out yesterday on such a huge scale that the banks as usual, were forced to draw heavily on the London money market in order to finance the "wakes" with clean new banknotes, clean new bills and clean new silver.

Tomorrow every milltown will hum with the exodus. Trains will be packed to suffocation; charabancs will crowd the town squares, load up and whirl their happy occupants to Blackpool, New Brighton, Southport and other holiday places.

Yorkshire sends thousands flooding eastwards to Scarborough and Bridlington and Whitby. Other charabancs invade the South, down as far as the Isle of Wight. Other parties, pooling their resources, make a bee-line for the Continent. Couples go off happily on their own, much to the interest of English playwrights, who have more than once found the Lancashire "wakes" a fruitful theme for drama. A motor-bicycle with sidecar or even a "peach-perch" behind complete with "peach," a favorite vehicle for the grand exodus.

Authorities agree that very little money is spent for drink during the "wakes" though the crowds are

GOOD HEALTH NECESSARY

Many Busy Women Owe Their Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are artists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it. "Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?"

rather noisy in trains and charabancs and might give the stranger a contrary impression. The money has to be spent with some care lest it give out and the holiday-makers forced to return home prematurely. The great aim of those who participate in the "wakes" is to come home on the very last day—without a penny.

TAVERNS

In the early days when settlers by the thousands were coming into Ohio lands to establish homes, places of entertainment had to be provided for the newcomers as they went about over the territory and taverns were a necessity.

These "public houses of entertainment" did not exist without sharing the expense of the county government and the individual who sought to become a tavern keeper had to get a license from Common Pleas Court.

Licenses were issued Archibald Lowry and Griffith Foos, of Springfield, at the second meeting of the new court, August 4, 1803. Peter Borders, tenant of the house where the county seat of justice was located, saw an opportunity for increasing his income by keeping a tavern. As the "Honourable Court" was finally convinced that such a "public" entertainment was necessary to the "public" service, and that Borders was a fit person to operate same, it accordingly granted him a license.

At the same meeting of the court in 1803, James Galloway, Sr., was appointed treasurer of the county. He served continuously until 1819.

By far the most important business transacted by the court was that of surveying and platting the site of the new town of Xenia. Joseph C. Vance was appointed director August 3, 1803, and gave the first bond ever given in the county as security of the performance of his duties.

For the services he performed according to bond, Vance received $49.25 for laying off the town of Xenia, finding chairman, making plots and selling lots. The duties and emoluments arising from the position of director seemed to appeal to Vance and his services were demanded for the laying off of Urbana after Champaign County was organized in 1805.

TYPICAL AMERICAN GIRL TO BE OHIOAN

DELAWARE, O., Aug. 3.—Alice M. Thompson, recently selected as the most representative American girl in a contest at the sesquicentennial exposition at Philadelphia, will enter Ohio Wesleyan University this fall. She was selected as the most representative American girl in New Hampshire, receiving the American Youth reward. Miss Thompson, who is seventeen years old and pretty, admits that she is perhaps a "wee bit old fashioned." Her hair is not bobbed and she has not learned to Charleston. She is now working nine hours a day in a shoe factory to earn money toward her college expenses because she believes that "a thing worth having is worth striving for."

Modish Mitzi

MITZI IS SUCH A GOOD AUDIENCE

By Jay V. Jay

Mitzi likes a window with a view and the hotel man was so obliging! Mitzi is viewing San Antonio while Aunt Sophia unpacks. Aunt Sophia has prepared for her task by putting on a cape-coat negligee.

This georgette frock has just the suspicion of a blouse to its bodice and is trimmed with embroidery in the color of the frock. Does Mitzi think it is becoming? It's easy to say: "Of course!"

Doesn't Mitzi think that this dress is too young for her? It's of beige crepe trimmed with black and rose crepe and the answer (Mitzi mages it absent-mindedly) is certainly: "No! Indeed."

Finally having chosen a dress of flat crepe with applique of velvet Aunt Sophia really arouses Mitzi's interest by saying: "Isn't it time we went out?" Mitzi has been viewing the view and says: "Quite!" Tomorrow—Mitzi Sees San Antonio—San Antonio Sees Mitzi.

The Theatre

Slightly more than $520,000,000 passed through box office windows of the motion picture theaters of America during 1925. This isn't a guess. It is the official figure of the Hays organization.

Every now and then you hear the comment that pictures are growing less popular. Nothing seems to be farther from the truth. Here is definite proof of their popularity. If we want to delve further into statistics, we may say that an average of slightly less than five dollars was spent by each man, woman and child in the country, during the last year.

Paul Ieni, to German director who made "The Three Wax Works" has just arrived in America. He has known Pola Negri since her earliest days at the UFA studio. And he defined, better than anyone else, what is disturbing her work lately. "Pola knows too much now," he said. "In the beginning she could do only the things she felt. Now she does only the things she knows. She knows emotions too well. She needs to feel them once more."

Newspaper lined vests were popular with Noah Beery at the time he made his first bid for theatrical fame in New York. He spent nights on parks benches and in less conspicuous places. "And I have been broke many times since" says the noted screen actor.

Ethel Barrymore has turned her talents to the typewriter and is at work on a dramatization of Professor Wrasline's history "Helen of Troy". Theater followers and admirers of Miss Barrymore all hope she will take the titular role in the stage offering. She is recovering from an operation for adhesions.

The plays "you ought to see" on the New York Rialto, are "Bride of the Lamb", "Craig's Wife", "H. M. S. Pinafore", "Talanthe", "Juno and the Paycock", "The Last of Mrs. Cheney", and "Young Woodley". New plays, names and players are entering, names and players are entering, theater conversation along the White Way and seeping into the "Hinterland." But the above named plays will live long in the memory of theater followers.

Today's Talk

ARE WOMEN SMARTER THAN MEN?

I have listened to the discussion whether men are smarter than women and vice versa, on so many occasions that it always makes me smile when the question is brought up.

You might as well ask: Which is the most useful fruit, the pear or the plum?

For myself, I owe the greater part of my education and what knowledge I have been able to pick up, to women. My mother was the first one. And then my teachers at school. And so many of my women friends.

There is something very fine and unusual and inspiring about the feminine mind. It is a much braver mind than that of a man. And though at the present writing it has not gone out into so many roads as has the male mind, still that has not been the fault of the women of the world.

There isn't an activity in which the mind of a man has worked but what that of a woman has distinguished itself quite as nobly and well.

It is idle to discuss the relative importance of either mind. I often wish that I were as smart as many women I have known. And I use subjected to undue inconvenience.

the term smartness in the sense of intelligence.

Intelligence is born in one. It's the way to use that intelligence that makes either a man or a woman worthwhile. And schools come in here to do their part.

Yet the best possible school is the world—people, countries, and all that there is in animate and inanimate life.

I learned a great deal the other day from a little animal that ran about in the thick woods where I found myself.

A woman is smarter than a man when she learns something from him that she doesn't learn from her. And that statement is just as true turned around.

CHINESE EXECUTION POSTPONED BY RAIN

PEKING, Aug. 3.—"Called off on account of rain" does not apply to baseball games in China because there aren't any Chinese baseball games. But two principals in the only comparable outdoor sport—public beheading—earned a brief reprieve here yesterday because a heavy down-pour caused officials to decide that neither participants nor spectators of the execution should be subjected to undue inconvenience.

HEAVY TRACK MAY GREET FIRST DAY'S FAIR RACING PROGRAM

If predicted showers Tuesday materialize, the half-mile track at the Xenia Fairgrounds will be heavy and holding for the opening program on the three-day short ship circuit meet at the annual Greene County Fair Wednesday afternoon.

Even if the skies are clear and the sun shines the racing strip may be soggy as a result of the hard rains over the week-end and again Monday night.

The feature event on the opening program Wednesday, the 2:12 pace for the Greene County Hardware Co. $500 purse, will bring together a field of ten sterling pacers. Dorothy B. entry of R. W. Pitkins, Mt. Vernon, will rule as the likely favorite, although Silver Pointer, Jim Faulkner's good stable gray pacer, and Orion, of the stable of John W. Burt, Columbus, will not lack for backers.

Nominations for the 2:12 pace follow:

Bambler, by Walter Cochato, J. D. Hensley, Daleville, Ind.; Orion, br. g., by Ortolan Axworthy, John W. Burt, Columbus; Charley C., b. g., by Corporal Charles, Jay Douglas, Oxford; Silver Pointer, g. g., by Sidney Pointer, James Faulkner, Xenia; Myrtle Simmons, b. m., by King Simmons, West and Turney, Wauseon; Dorothy B., b. m., by Boyd Worth, and Peter Brown, by Colonel Brown, R. W. Pitkins, Mt. Vernon; Harry Forbes, H. W. Wood, Mechanicsburg; Blanche K., b. m., by Drusus, M. G. Knoblock, Massillon, and Brook Volo, b. g., Peter Volo, F. A. Cares, Fremont.

The 2:25 pace for a $300 purse for which twenty horses have been named as starters, will also absorb some attention. In the event of a heavy track this card may be riddled by scratches. W. M., an entry of C. G. Haley, Kenton, looks as the probable winner. Entry list as follows:

Gabe Albin, br. g., by Binjolla.

SAYRE DRUG STORE IMPROVEMENTS TO CHANGE INTERIOR

Installation of a new soda fountain in the H. L. Sayre Drug Store, S. Detroit St., Monday inaugurated improvements that will change the entire interior of the store.

The fountain has been moved from the south to the north side of the room and equipped with new fixtures. The place it formerly occupied will permit of enlargement of the toilet goods department, it is announced.

Cases along the north wall will be moved to the south side of room, facing cases along the south wall. They will be used as extra stock cases, a narrow aisle between permitting the department for use as a stock room. These fixtures will be mahogany finished and new mahogany wall cases will be added along the north wall and against the rear on the stock room cases on the south side of the room.

Standing drug cases partitioning the sales room from the prescription department will be moved forward, permitting establishment of a Victrola department in the rear of the sales room and separated from the store room proper. Mr. Sayre's office will also be in the rear of this partition.

The new cases will be ready for placing of stock the last of the week, workmen say but the phonograph department will not be completed until later. Interior decoration will complete the improvements.

QUOIT TEAMS WILL COMPETE AT FAIR

At least four and probably five match teams are expected to compete in the annual inter-county quoit tournament at the Greene County Fair this week.

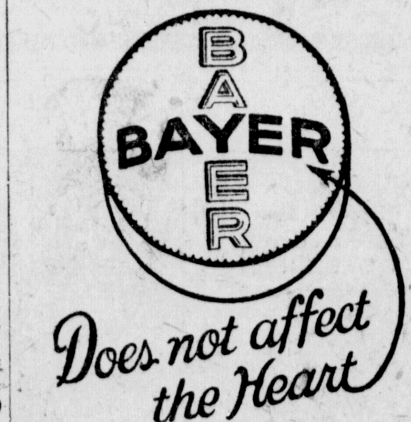

The tournament will be run off Wednesday and Thursday, commencing each morning at 10 a. m., and will be governed by the rules of the Xenia Quoit Club.

Any organized quoit club is eligible to compete in this tourney. Centerville, Xenia, Shrine, Eastwood, Riverdale and N. C. R. Clubs of Dayton, are possible entrants. Each club is to be represented by two or more players. Purse of $25 will be divided into three moneys, First, $12.50; second, $7.50 and third, $5.

Xenia has an excellent chance to win first money again this year. The local team has always cut in for a large share of the purse and is confident of duplicating this year.

"BAYER ASPIRIN" PROVED SAFE

Take without Fear as Told in "Bayer" Package

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians over twenty-five years for Colds Headache Neuritis Lumbago Toothache Rheumatism Neuralgia Pain. Each unbroken "Bayer" package contains proven directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Drugists also sell bottles of 2 and 100.

RESERVES TO OPEN THREE GAME SERIES AT HARSHMANVILLE

Xenia Reserves will go to Harshmanville to meet the Harshman nine in the first of a probable three game series Sunday afternoon, the contest starting at 2:30 p. m.

Fans are looking forward to the game with interest as there is great rivalry between the two outfits. Two former Harshman players are now members of the Xenia team. They are "Jug" Conley and Chet Cyphers, who are playing a prominent role in the success of the local team this season. Cyphers is the team's mainstay in the box and Conley is holding down second in a manner that leaves nothing to be desired. In addition both players are pounding the ball at a 400 rate.

Cyphers has developed into a first class pitcher and will test his assortment of curves against his former team mates Sunday. He will be opposed on the mound by Glass, who was formerly a Reserve hurler but since becoming a member of the Harshman team this season, has easily won a majority of his games.

PATRONS URGED TO SEE CLUB EXHIBIT

Patrons at the Greene County Fair are urged to attend the County Boys' and Girls Beef Calf Club exhibit, which is being revived this year, by sponsors of the organization.

Each of the thirty-six members of the club are exhibiting their animals at the Fair. The exhibit is located near the Art Hall and is a big drawing card for Fair crowds. The club did not exhibit last year but interest in the organization has been increased as evidenced by the show.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

ROSILYN RIDGEWAY learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an over-worked little drudge in her father's inn.

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother.

FLORENCE RIDGEWAY, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chose the easiest way out. Rosilyn loving her husband, knows that he is still in love with Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying.

STEVIE VAN VORST, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Ridgeway. She is in Paris when the news reaches her of Landis' marriage and she hosts back to the United States. With her goes Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she suggests that they ask the young Ridgeways to dinner. She and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby through an apparent misunderstanding Rosilyn and Briscoe will be left alone together, while she will be with her beloved Landis.

Landis, finding himself alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more. Some hours later that evening, Rosilyn who is bewildered to find herself spending the evening in the company of Rupert Briscoe, sees her husband dancing with Lydia—in his eyes a look of rapture. She believes he has seen her but is too rude—or ashamed—to speak. Briscoe asks her to go on to a nightclub, and in a mood of recklessness she consents.

At the nightclub, Rosilyn under the influence of some wine begins to sparkle and jest.

Briscoe, on bidding Rosilyn goodnight, calls her the Little Lady of His Dreams.

In Paris Stephen Van Vorst is lonely for Lydia. He is on the way to see Marietta, a dancer, a one-time sweetheart of Briscoe's, who, he hopes will be able to help him.

Van Vorst finds Marietta weeping over Briscoe's desertion. He tells her to buck up and come along for a ride with him—he wants to talk over a plan for him.

Van Vorst offers to pay all Marietta's expenses to live in New York in style, if she will "vamp" Landis Ridgeway away from his old flame Lydia, who, Van Vorst suspects is even now winning Landis' heart over again. Marietta agrees to this arrangement, and they plan to cross the Channel by aeroplane.

Chapter XXXVI
NEAR DEATH

But nervous tremors assailed Marietta next morning when Van Vorst's car deposited them at the aerodrome, and a uniformed official led them to the big biplane that was waiting, like some giant insect, to carry them across the Channel.

Behind the triplex-glass windshield sat the two pilots, leather-helmeted.

Mechanics ran about. One fellow was working at the stiff propeller.

"All aboard," announced the uniformed official.

There was a roaring sound of engines as Van Vorst took the reluctant Marietta by the elbow and conducted her to the narrow doorway leading to the machine's interior.

"I'm terrified," she whimpered. He almost pushed her up the steel gangway, and so inside.

The gangway was withdrawn, the door slid shut, and the mechanic drew the block from one of the wheels, and the machine veered to port, just like a drunken taxicab.

"Gosh! This is awful!" Marietta flung herself into a wicker chair and stared desperately through the long windows, while the roar of the engine grew louder and still louder.

"Bumpety! Bumpety! Bump!"

"Oh, heavens! We're rising!"

She closed her eyes, a shudder.

"You're all right," Van Vorst sat down near her. "Look at the speed-indicator! We're doing fifty!"

The girl opened her eyes to see the grass fall away beneath them.

"The earth's dropping! It's frightful! I can't bear it!" She pressed a hand to her throat, as though suffocating.

"Don't be silly!"

But the loud roar of the propeller, and the still louder noise of the engine, almost drowned their voices.

The neat cabin seemed to turn, to sway.

"We're banking from the wind now," bellowed her companion. The machine levelled itself. She breathed again.

"Look over the side!" commanded Van Vorst.

She did so. Far below lay Paris, like a child's toy village.

Then: "Heavens! What's that? We're sinking!" cried she, terrified again.

"An air-pocket," shouted her companion, close to her ear.

The very floor seemed to be dropping out of the machine!

Then steadiness, again. She could see the blue struts of the wings, the bright blue petrol tank on either side.

"Curious how one doesn't realize a sense of speed!" The only thing that seemed to move was the little indicator needle. "We must be over five thousand up by now!"

Van Vorst felt a sense of power, of patronage. How nervous and how ignorant were all women!

"Feel all right? Mustn't touch champagne in the air, m'dear. It's fatal!"

She turned nervously to him.

"There's a storm somewhere."

My head aches!"

The minutes passed. The machine was rising, rising, higher and higher.

Then suddenly it staggered drunkenly. Marietta screamed.

"The indicator! We're doing over a hundred miles an hour! What's happened?"

Again that awful stagger. Then a sudden corkscrew, violent, nauseating.

The great machine rolled and pitched, then did another corkscrew.

"What's happened? Quick!" the girl sprang up, face livid, eyes staring out of her head.

Van Vorst gripped her by the arm, and caught her as she fell.

"Keep still!" His heart beat suffocatingly. He was as afraid as she, sensing catastrophe.

Then, as the engine conked and the machine nose-dived towards the earth, he felt that certain death was rushing towards them, and no human power could save them!

Marietta slumped in an inert heap against his arm.

The man was sick with nauseating terror. In one moment, two or three, the black wings of death would compass them. Hurling into eternity, without preparation, without time for appeal to the Unknown, what awaited such as he?

He did not want to die. He was afraid to die.

The biplane corkscrewed. Suddenly he heard the rhythmic beat of the engine once again. Thank God for that! Up there in the cockpit, the pilot, every nerve a-strain, was struggling to get the great machine under control. She pitched. She rolled. The wind buffeted her unmercifully.

And then—miraculously—she righted herself, and the tractor-screw hummed reassuringly.

Van Vorst withdrew his supporting arm from the unconscious form of his companion, and, hands shaking as though wit agone, wrenched from the pocket of his coat a brandy flask.

He took a long drink. His heart beat normally again. Breathing was easier.

To have so near death—how terrible.

He rose unsteadily, laying Marietta at full length on the seat. She would come to, any moment. Till then, let merciful oblivion continue. Tomorrow: When Red Lips Win.

PHONE DRIVES MARSHAL FROM OFFICE

The village of Yellow Springs was without a town marshal Tuesday as a result of the resignation of George A. Baker presented to the village council at its regular meeting Monday night.

Baker, in his resignation, declared "the job took too much of his time from business."

The position pays only $100 per year.

The resignation was accepted by council but no successor has been named. Until the vacancy can be filled, Traffic Officer W. E. Chapman will temporarily assume the duties of marshal, it is announced.

Installation of a telephone in the marshal's home is blamed for the increased business and indirectly responsible for the resignation. Village council recently voted to install the telephone and since that time, Baker has been kept constantly busy answering phone calls.

AMERICAN AUTOS INCREASE IN SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 3.—American motor cars are helping to motorize Sweden's highroad traffic at breakneck speed and the total Swedish import of automobiles and accessories during 1925 shows a jump of over thirty per cent over the preceding year, according to official reports published here.

Of the total sum of $10,612,000 spent for foreign cars in 1925 over nine millions were paid for cars of American makes.

FISHER BODIES

GENERAL MOTORS

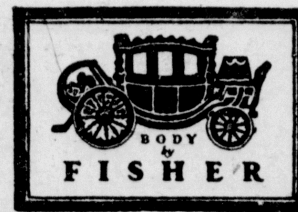

LOOK AT THE NEW CARS
AND SEE-BODY BY FISHER

The new car announcements of General Motors have swept Fisher into the greatest eminence in motor car history.

Everywhere you see the emblem—Body by Fisher. In all price classes, it is the inescapable badge of quality. The leaders, such as Cadillac, Buick, Chevrolet, Oakland, Oldsmobile and Pontiac, all display as one of their proudest assets the symbol—Body by Fisher.

It is their assurance of public satisfaction—in safety, in charm of line, in beauty of color and appointment, in comfort and convenience.

Fisher—the greatest body builder in the world—stands head and shoulders above all others in quality. The new General Motors cars all help to prove Fisher leadership.

MCKINLEY EXPENSES IN CAMPAIGN DISCLOSED

Public Utilities Agent Handled Cash Primary Probers Learn—Poll Workers Paid $5.00 to $15.00 Each

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Public Utilities Agent L. E. Fisher of the Illinois Traction Co. "handled the money" for the campaign of Senator William B. McKinley, Southern, Illinois, Rufus Shepherd today told the senate primary investigating committee.

Shepherd said Fisher's corporation was a "Studebaker interest" and that he furnished $2500 for sixty-one precincts in East St. Louis.

"We paid poll workers from $5 to $15" the first witness at resumption of the investigation declared. "I don't know how many workers we

INTEREST EVIDENT WHEN WEST VIRGINIA PICKS CANDIDATES

Prohibition Issue Of Campaign Of Solons

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 3.—Much interest was evident in the West Virginia primary elections today as voters selected their candidates for congress and the legislature.

Two of the congressional candidates have injected the prohibition issue into their campaigns.

Former Rep. Rosenbloom, an advocate of modification of the Volstead act, is opposing Rep. Carl G. Bachman for the nomination in the first district, while Rep. Frank L. Bowman is opposed by Harry H. Howell, a friend of modification, in the second district. All four are Republicans.

Representatives Bachman, John Wolverson and James French Strether, all Republicans, are candidates for renomination in the first, second and third districts, respectively. Rep. J. A. Aldrich is the only Democratic congressman from West Virginia, is seeking renomination.

Both parties will have nominees for each of the congressional offices, fifteen state senatorships and sixty-eight members of the state house of delegates.

CHARLES SWIFT AND CLAIRE DUX MARRY

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The woman with the golden voice and the man with the Midas touch of Chicago's stock yards—Charles Swift and his bride, the former opera star Claire Dux left today for their honeymoon at Vianna, Cape Cod, Mass.

The couple was wed at sundown last night in the chapel of the University of Chicago. There was a short program of wedding music and then the service was performed by the Rev. Theodore G. Soares, chaplain of the University.

The chapel was elaborately decorated in chrome yellow while the bride and her lone attendant, Mrs. Walter Winterburg, San Francisco, both wore apricot yellow crepe. Dr. Winterburg gave Miss Dux in marriage. Harold H. Swift, a brother of the groom was the best man

ABANDONS ATTEMPT EXHAUSTED WHEN IN REACH OF SUCCESS

American Swimmer Makes Brave Effort Against Water

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 3.—Clara Belle Barrett, today admitted the English channel's ability to defeat her when after a marvelous swimming performance that brought her within two miles of victory she abandoned her effort to swim to France.

According to her pilot, she decided never to make the gruelling attempt again.

The official time of the American girl's swim was twenty-one hours and forty minutes. She started from Dover at 7:55 a. m. Monday and abandoned her attempt at 5:35 a. m. today. The actual distance covered probably never will be known since cross tides and currents would add many miles to the bare twenty lying between Dover and the closest point on the French shore.

Captain James S. Learmonth, the British pilot who was aboard the tug which accompanied Miss Barrett, was tremendously impressed by the American girl's feat.

"We couldn't see five yards ahead of us because of the fog," he said. "She must have marvelous staying powers. I asked her if she would try again and she told me she never would come back."

Handicapped by more or less slender finances and without the services of better known trainers, everything was against Miss Barrett, except her magnificent physique and splendid determination.

She learned to swim at Rye, N. Y., where her parents went during the summers before her father's death. When she was six years old she was an accomplished swimmer.

The idea of a channel swim had been in her mind for several years. Last summer she read of the ineffectual attempts made by other channel swimmers and determined to develop the necessary endurance.

Miss Barrett was not backed by a wealthy patron or swimming association but friends and relatives "chipped in" the amounts necessary for training purposes and the accompanying tug.

Miss Barrett made her attempt to swim the channel alone and it seemed she was going to be the first woman to negotiate the treacherous waters separating England and France. She reached mid-channel in almost record time.

Indication that she was fighting bad weather came when Dr. George Brewster, a London physician, who set out from a point five miles east of Dover at 11 a. m. was forced to give up late in the afternoon. The American woman fought on. A strapping six-footer, weighing 185 pounds, she is built to battle with the heavy waters and her reserve strength sustained her, long after a less robust woman would have failed.

NEW ROCHELLE, L. I., Aug. 3.—"I'm so glad she's out of the water. Are you sure she's safe?" I know that she'll feel badly about losing. I'm so worried though that she'll try it again for that reason we all wanted her to win."

This was the comment made to the United Press by Mrs. Nathan F. Barrett, mother of the channel swimmer at her home at Pelham Wood, when given the news that Miss Barrett had been lifted from the water exhausted.

CAPE GRIZ NEZ, France, Aug. 3.—Olaf Farstad, the Norwegian swimmer abandoned his attempt to swim the English channel at 1:10 p. m. today. He was seven and one half miles out. He entered the water here at 3:30 a. m.

SET QUARANTINE LINE DEFENSE, O., Aug. 3.—Upon finding specimens of European corn borer in every township, Defiance County federal authorities set the quarantine line temporarily at the Ohio-Indiana line, twenty-five miles west of Defiance. Last year the line was eleven miles east of here. Moving of the line will deprive Hicksville of the Port Wayne market.

Twelve years ago today the world war had begun. Germany had invaded France; Russian troops had invaded Germany.

In the following article, written for the United Press, Hanford McNider, acting secretary of war, discusses military developments, in relation to America, resulting from the war and post war periods.

BOY BURNED AT STAKE BY PALS

WHITING, Ind., Aug. 3.—George Cannac, 9, is dead, the victim of his playfellows, who "burned him at the stake."

He died before rescuers could reach him.

The group of playmates decided upon George as the captive to be burned in the "Indian pageant." He was tied to a stake but the fire wouldn't light. Some one poured turpentine on the wood at his feet and on his clothing. He was a sheet of flames a moment later. Police were unable to learn the names of his companions who fled screaming when the fire ignited.

COSHOCTON CALM AS CONFESSED SLAYER REMOVED FROM JAIL

Crowds Threaten So Prisoner Taken to Neighboring City

COSHOCTON, O., Aug. 3.—Coshocton was quiet today after a night during which more than 500 townspeople, aroused by the murder of 10-year-old Gertrude D'Ostrop, milled in the streets until after midnight and authorities entertained fears for the safety of Robert E. Thompson, who confessed he assaulted and strangled the child.

The crowd dispersed after midnight when it was learned that Thompson had been removed from the county jail here and Sheriff Marquard had been in telephone communication with state officials inquiring the possibility of obtaining troops, if the occasion demanded.

One man was arrested charged with disturbing the peace after he had gone about the streets setting off giant firecrackers. He gave his name as Frank Slaughter.

Feeling in Coshocton was first aroused when the child's body was discovered late Saturday. Posses immediately were organized to hunt for the slayer and this resulted in the arrest of Thompson in Mount Vernon and his confession.

Arraigned late yesterday Thompson pleaded guilty to a charge of murder. Citizens gathered about the streets discussing the developments and became angered until shortly before midnight a large group was about the jail.

Officials in conversation with state guard officers in Columbus were told that troops were stationed at Zanesville and could be dispatched immediately, if needed.

The crowd, however, dissolved when it was learned that Thompson had been taken to a neighboring jail for safety.

WEATHER BUREAU TO HAVE AIR STATIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Twenty-one new pilot balloon stations will be established along the civil airways by the Weather Bureau to aid air navigation, it is announced by the Bureau.

The balloons will be sent up along the air routes to give accurate conditions of the air currents and provide weather forecasts so that an airplane pilot may know weather conditions over his route four to six hours in advance.

The balloon stations are: Chicago, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, Cleveland, Reno, New York, Dallas, Minneapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis, Jacksonville, San Francisco, Seattle, Los Angeles, Detroit, Boston, Miami, Atlanta, Portland, Ore., Oklahoma City and Cincinnati.

The first ten are expected to be in operation during the latter part of the summer and the remainder by November.

The twelfth anniversary of the beginning of the world war finds the United States War Department engaged on relatively more comprehensive preparedness projects than was the case in 1914. Our country has recognized that its defense must rest on the readiness of its citizens to bear arms.

That rapid transition from peace to war in 1914 has taught us that every activity of the nation must be ready for war emergencies if we are to be secure.

Furthermore, we bear in mind the high technical developments of the past war in the hope that recognition of the military application of science may serve for the preservation of peace.

However, regardless of these scientific developments, man power was and is the instrumentality which determined the security of the nation and the index of that security may be found in the hearts of the citizens.

Mrs. Hall Released on Bail in Noted Murder

This picture was taken when Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall (center) walked out of the jail at New Brunswick, N. J., free on bail on charges of murdering her husband, Rev. ### EIGHTY SEVENTH FAIR GETS UNDER WAY; JUDGING STARTS WEDNESDAY

The Greene County fair will begin the actual celebration of its eighty-seventh birthday Wednesday.

Tuesday was the opening day but the speed events and judging in the various departments will not begin until Wednesday.

Secretary J. Robert Bryson announces the complete program for judging for premium awards Wednesday.

Mules and road horses, Holstein, Jersey and Guernsey cattle as well as all sheep will be judged Wednesday. Also Poland China, Spotted Poland China and Hampshires and poultry judging will be started.

Judging will also start in the vegetable and Art Hall and in the dairy calf department of the Boys' and Girls' Club for which fifteen entries have been received by the secretary.

During the races in the afternoon, musical entertainment between heats will be furnished by the New Burlington Band.

In the amusement line, the Gooding Amusement Co., again has charge of the riding concessions and it is announced a new ride called the "Hey Day" will be a leading feature.

PROSECUTION WILL ASK THREE INDICTMENTS IN MURDER CASE

Two Men and One Woman Will be Victims Special Counsel Admits—Two Men Will Not Be Arrested

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 3.—Important evidence previously possessed by the state in the Hall-Mills case, has been lost but it is expected, however, that prosecution will ask three indictments—two men and one woman—Special Prosecutor Simpson is credited with having admitted today.

Recovery of the evidence and search for the relapsed or lost parts of the documentary record of the first investigation and a hunt for further exhibits, including the pistol of Willie Stevens, is to occupy the attention of the new prosecutor.

Senator Simpson admitted it is unlikely that the state will arrest either of the two men against whom indictments will be asked. He said that the policy of the prosecutor at present could be best served by permitting them to remain at liberty.

The identity of the persons to be charged with connection with the murder of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, was admitted by Simpson to be known to the state although no clue to their names has been given.

Several witnesses whose testimony in the various investigations was found removed from the warden's safe in Somerset County jail, may be recalled for examination the prosecutor said.

Prosecutor Simpson interviewed Mrs. James Gibson, the "pig woman" an important state's witness who said she saw a woman in gray garb and a bushy haired man at the murder scene. Simpson said he had been deeply impressed by the woman's story.

FARM BUREAU HEADS OPENING SESSIONS

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3.—A two day meeting of presidents and secretaries of county farm bureaus opened today.

Subjects to be discussed were: Co-operative livestock marketing by F. G. Keener.

Well marketing by J. F. Walker.

Efficiency by B. B. Mason.

Public relations by Frank C. Dean.

Traffic by C. S. Long.

Relation of industry to agriculture was discussed by G. B. Chandler, executive secretary of the Ohio chamber of commerce.

Re-appraisal, the proposed city planning amendment and rural police will be discussed.

TO EXHIBIT SIRE

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 3.—Exhibition of their herd sires will be made by Guernsey Breeders from various sections of Ohio at the Wayne County Fair Thursday. A dairy cow trial, the first of its kind to be held in Ohio will be a feature of the day's program.

A grand scene will be enacted in the grand stand when two purebred cows are to show cause for retaining their registration papers.

SEEK NEW EVIDENCE IN MELLETT MURDER AS ONE STORY FAILS

Mystery Witness's Yarn Collapses Under Investigation

CANTON, O., Aug. 3.—Detectives investigating the murder of Don Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News began a search for new evidence today as the story of Steve Kascholk, the "mystery witness" held in county jail showed possible weakness.

Kascholk gave himself up soon after the murder and told of being hired with Patrick McDermott for whom a nation-wide search is under way to "beat up" Mellett, naming their employers. He withdrew the last minute, he said, but McDermott remained in Canton until after the assassination.

Ben Rudner, Massillon and Carl Studer, Canton, two of the men accused by Kascholk of plotting underworld revenge against Mellett have come forward voluntarily with alibis. Both denied acquaintance with either Kascholk or McDermott.

While every angle of Kascholk's story was investigated and the search for McDermott continued, the citizens committee appointed to straighten out Canton's political tangle held another secret meeting. Reports of dissension among investigators persisted despite announcements yesterday that complete harmony was restored.

COMMITTS SUICIDE AFTER TWO MURDERS

CINCINNATI, August 3.—Ray Ress, 45, killed himself at his home in Felicity, near here today shortly before Sheriff Fred Crosswell arrived to question him regarding the murder at Rural last night of Mrs. Mamie King and Ott Elk.

The couple was shot to death at midnight as they were sitting in an automobile.

Ress, a married man, was alleged to have been friendly with Mrs. King.

The couple was sitting in Elk's car, parked in a farm yard near Chile when another car drew alongside. Its occupants fired a volley of shots and drove away.

Joseph L. Broadwell, a farmer near whose home the shooting occurred found the woman and man dead a few minutes after he was awakened by the shooting.

Mrs. King was separated from her husband. Elk was unmarried.

ENTERTAINS SCRIBE WITH EXECUTIONS

TSITSISHAR, Manchuria, Aug. 3.—So pleased was General Chang, commander of the local garrison, at the unusual visit of an American newspaper correspondent to this remote point that he ordered out three condemned criminals and was about to lop off their heads by way of celebration when the visitor hastily intervened and explained he didn't require that form of entertainment.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH WILL BE RETURNED AFTER ITS SEIZURE

Priest Suspended By Archbishop For Attempted Schism

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—

The United Press was informed today that Alex W. Weddell, United States consul general had not lodged any protest here regarding the seizure of the Mexican Episcopal Church of San Jose de Gracia.

The disappearance of the image constitutes a potential cause of trouble since it is most revered among the ignorant Indians and should they learn of the images' absence, there might be some difficulty in controlling the situation.

It was estimated today that ninety per cent of the churches of Mexico were in the hands of the municipal authorities. The local health department announced churches in the federal district and the cathedral would be cleaned and fumigated this week.

Under the doorways of foreign and national protestants, of sons and of some Catholics, have mysteriously appeared signs of paper bearing the following sentence:

"He who denies being a catholic is a renegade because in the baptismal font he swore to follow Jesus Christ."

Native servants seemed to be strangely affected when they heard about the signs.

Thirty-nine priests who refused to register in accordance with the new laws and three laymen composing the first committee of the Catholic League for the defense of religious liberty were to have legal hearings this week.

It was understood today that the church which was seized by the authorities under the mistaken conception that it had been abandoned by the priests would be returned to ecclesiastical state.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—Maurice Jacobo Calvo, arch-priest attacked to the Basilica of Guadalupe, has been suspended from his position by Archbishop Morley del Rio, for an attempt to provoke a schism among Catholics at Villa Guadalupe, making an effort to renew religious services in disobedience to the collective pastoral letter calling for abandonment of churches.

Angel Vivanco, a prominent Catholic at Villa Guadalupe, began the attempt, it is understood, influencing Calvo and the three laymen who also were suspended, to join him.

Catholic townspeople opposed the move. The suspension was urged by Estaban Soto Ruizwari, president of the court of honor of the Knights of St. Mary of Guadalupe.

An unconfirmed report that an American protestant minister had been attacked in the town of Irapuato, state of Guanajuato, circulated in the city today. One version of the story said the minister had been hanged and his caudex burned.

It was learned today that the sacred image of the Virgin of Guadalupe, patron saint of Mexico, had disappeared from the Basilica of Guadalupe, a spurious image replacing the original. Plans to remove the sacred image were made at the recent Eucharist Congress at Chicago and a box to receive it, was brought from Chicago but was found to be too small for its purpose. Another box was obtained and the image was taken away.

LABOR PAPER IS TO FAVOR MISS ALLEN

COLUMBUS, Aug. 3.—Campaign managers for Judge Florence Allen, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator today were helping distribute 500,000 copies of a special edition of "Labor," official newspaper of the railroad brotherhoods published at Washington, which endorses Miss Allen and urges her nomination.

"Labor is not supporting Judge Florence Allen for the senate because she is a woman," the paper says. "Her sex gives her no claim to office and she will be the first to say so. She never has asked for favors."

"Labor is supporting Judge Allen because she is incomparably the best and biggest 'man' available for the job. In brains, character and experience she towers head and shoulders above the field."

Former Senator Allen Pomeroy is severely scored in the labor paper.

FAMOUS COMPOSER INITIATED INDIAN

SANTE FE, N. M., Aug. 3.—Charles Wakefield Cadman composer of music based on Indian melodies, will become one of the people he has long studied and loved, when he is initiated into the Hopi Indian tribe at the Santa Fe Fiesta beginning here today.

Cadman, who gained popularity with his song, "The Land of the Sky Blue Water," and was recognized as a writer of Indian operas when his "Shanewis" was produced at the Metropolitan in New York, has spent the last fifteen years in New Mexico, Colorado and California, studying Indian music at first hand.

DIRECTOR NAMED FOR COUNTY NORMAL SCHOOL AT CEDARVILLE

Miss Edna Howland, West Union, O., was recently elected by Greene County Board of Education as director of the County Normal School. It is announced that Miss Howland's home is in West Union, but for the past five or six years she has been conducting the Warren County Normal School, located at Waynesville.

Announcement of her election to the position at Cedarville is made in connection with the statement that the Warren County Normal at Waynesville, the Madison County Normal at London, together with a number of others will be abolished. This is in line with the program of the State Director of Education, who would merge smaller and more isolated schools with the larger units where better instruction can be given.

Cedarville, because of its excellent advantages, has been selected as one of the points for centralization of teacher training and an assistant director has already been granted by the State Department under the present plan of combining classes with the college. Some four or five different instructors will be available to the student absolutely free of tuition. Among those who will teach in the County Normal are Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College; Edna M. Howland, Prof. H. H. Smith, Mrs. Walter Corrt, (music) and one or more other members of the faculty not yet decided upon. This makes about the largest county normal faculty yet announced in the state. School opens September 8, 9:30 a. m. Students are enrolling now both with the County Superintendent at Xenia and Dr. McChesney at Cedarville College.

This teacher training work is unusually popular now, according to County Superintendent H. C. Aultman, because of the free tuition and the unusually low cost of living at the college. Supt. Aultman is arranging for a minimum school rate on the Pennsylvania from points along the line from London to Waynesville to accommodate those wishing to live at home. Class schedules will be arranged to suit the trains.

SENATOR FESS WILL ADDRESS VETERANS AT DAYTON PICNIC

U. S. Senator S. D. Fess, Yellow Springs, will deliver the principal address at the annual picnic of the Veterans' Republican Club, Dayton, Tuesday night at Memorial Hall at 8 o'clock.

Several thousand Republicans as well as members of other political organizations, are expected to attend the affair, at which Senator Fess will speak on "A Soldier in Government."

Senator Fess will register at the Hotel Miami and will be escorted to the hall by a guard of honor.

Following the addresses Republican candidates will be introduced at the gathering. Supper will be later served.

Committee in charge of the affair consists of Howard Shellenberger, chairman; D. R. Reed, Fred A. Shank, and Clarence Hussman. Howard Heald is president of the club.

DEWINE-BURGESS

WEDDING IN SPRINGFIELD
Miss Agnes Marie Dewine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dewine, 45 W. State St., Springfield, formerly of Yellow Springs, and Mr. Nathan Leffen Burgess, Hyde Park, Boston, Mass., were united in marriage Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock at St. Raphael Church, Springfield. Monsignor Buckley officiated.

The bride's gown was a new Fall model of sunset georgette over a rose georgette slip. The trimming was ecru lace, fashioned along straight lines. She wore a Fall hat of blonde silk and velvet trimmed with rose lace. Her slippers and hose were blonde shade and she carried an arm bouquet of Killarney roses.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Bancroft, following the ceremony. Covers were laid for thirty guests who were members of the immediate families. Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. Burgess left for a wedding trip to Boston, New York and Philadelphia.

Mrs. Burgess' traveling suit was of navy blue with a felt hat to match. Her accessories were of the parchment shade.

Mr. and Mrs. Burgess will reside, on their return from their wedding trip, in Dayton, where Mr. Burgess is engaged as an architect. Later they will go to Boston to live.

Mrs. Burgess attended Antioch Academy while residing in Yellow Springs. She later graduated from St. Raphael High School, Springfield, in 1924.

Mr. Burgess is a graduate of the Plymouth High School at Cambridge, Mass., and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He came to Antioch College at the time it was re-organized and was an instructor there in art.

STUDIO SEASON ENDED WITH PROGRAM

A contest that aroused considerable interest among violin students at the Xenia Music Studios, was brought to a close with a musical at the studios, Saturday afternoon. Prizes were given in both the high school and junior departments to the students who practiced the greatest number of hours during the month of July.

Miss Mildred Ary came out first in the junior department, Miss Martha Anna Baughn running her a close second while in the high school department, it was a tie between James Malavazos and Miss Marguerite Zeiner.

Those taking part in the musical were: Virginia Babb, Katherine Maxwell, Mildred Ary, Rowena McKay, Virginia St. John, Marguerite Zeiner, and James Malavazos, while an interesting paper on old violins was read by Miss Lindsey.

After August 7, the studios will be closed until the beginning of the Fall term, September 1. Miss Lindsey taking a much needed vacation.

Mr. Clarence Jeffries is leaving by motor Tuesday for Kentland, Ind. to join Mrs. Jeffries and family. They will go on to Grand Rapids, for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rambo, Wilmington, had as their guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Frank King, New Carlisle; Mr. and Mrs. James King, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. King and son, Francis; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ary, and daughter, Wanda Mae; Mrs. Julia King, Mrs. Emma King, Port William; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ashbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rambo, Mrs. Minor Jones and son, Theibert, and Ernest Rambo.

Mrs. Vincent Heaton and two children, Columbus, are visiting Mrs. Heaton's parents, Chief and Mrs. M. E. Graham, Dayton Ave.

Mr. Joshua Ellis and daughter, Mrs. Veturah E. Linkhart and daughter, Miss Nora Linkhart, have returned home from a motor trip having spent the past week at Cleveland and Cedar Point, attending the thirty-ninth reunion of the sixtieth regiment O. V. I. at Lorain, at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Cooper, on Lake Erie.

Mr. J. J. Wolford, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Wolford, Hoop Road, left Monday for central Kentucky, where he will spend the remainder of the Summer doing field work, leading to his doctor's degree in geology. Mr. Wolford's work will be the clearing up of a disputed point in the ordovician stratigraphy of central Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Christian and sons, Bobbie and Jack, Dayton, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Toms, Hoop Road.

Mrs. Della Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Morrow and family, Hillsboro, O., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright, S. Detroit St., Sunday.

Mrs. Virgil Allen, Dayton, is spending the week with her mother, Mrs. Mary Hicks, while Mr. Allen is spending his vacation with his brother, Mr. Earl Allen, at San Antonio, Tex.

Miss Jane Ninde, Fort Wayne, Ind., is the houseguest of her aunt, Mrs. Mary M. Meredith, N. King St., for two weeks.

Regular meeting of Triumph Temple, Pythian Sisters, will be held at 7:30 p. m., Tuesday, it is announced. A program has been arranged and refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Conwell, Chestnut St., returned home Monday after spending several days in Columbus visiting their son, Mr. James Conwell and family.

MISS MALEY MARRIED

HERE MONDAY AFTERNOON
Solemnized with quiet dignity, the marriage of Miss Ruth K. Maley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Maley, S. Columbus St., to Mr. Donald Grant Organ, Wilmington, took place at the parsonage of First Methodist Episcopal Church, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. F. W. Stanton, the bride's pastor, officiated.

The bride wore her traveling costume for her marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Organ left immediately on a motor trip. Their trip is shortened because Mr. Organ is teaching in the Summer school at Wilmington College. He is a graduate of that college and taught at Sidney, O., and received his M. A. degree at the University of Cincinnati, in June.

Mrs. Organ is a graduate of Xenia Central High School and of the Cincinnati College of Music. She was music supervisor at Sidney Public Schools four years and in the Wilmington Public Schools two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Organ will reside at Bowling Green, O., where Mr. Organ will teach science in the high school. They will be at home after September 1, at 413 Wallace Ave., that city.

WILMINGTON GUESTS

AT COUNTRY CLUB PARTY
Threatening clouds and the resultant downpour of rain did not deter women of the Xenia Country Club in spending an enjoyable day at the club Monday.

Nearly sixty women gathered in the early morning to spend the time in the clubhouse and surrounding grounds. Ten members of the Snow Hill Country Club, Wilmington, were entertained. Six Wilmington golfers were matched with Xenia players, the hostesses being winners of the match. The score was 18 to 0.

While golfers spent the morning on the greens the other guests were entertained with bridge on the porches of the club house. Several private parties were entertained which added interest to the weekly gathering. The porches and rooms were prettily decked with brilliant summer bloom.

Luncheon followed cards and golf. Mrs. J. O. McDorman, chairman of the committee, was assisted by Mrs. C. W. Murphy, Mrs. Lawrence Landaker, Mrs. C. H. Little, Miss Margaret Little and Miss Mary Elizabeth McDorman.

Mrs. Theodore F. Myler, who is moving soon from Washington, C. H., to Xenia, entertained Friday afternoon with a farewell tea. Her departure from Washington C. H. is regretted by Mrs. Myler's many social acquaintances in that city.

ACCIDENTS INCREASE

Those who had hoped that increased attention given to safety upon the streets and highways would be responsible for a lowering of the national death and accident list can take little comfort in the figures by the Bureau of Statistics Committee of the National Safety Council.

Last year's fatalities were 22,500, an increase of 2,200 over the record of 1924. Excluding fatalities resulting from collisions with street cars and railroad trains, they increased from 17,600 in 1924 to 19,800 in 1925. Grade crossing fatalities jumped from 1,688 to 1,784. The death rate to the 100,000 population was 14.9 in 1923, in 1924 was 15.7, and in 1925, 17.2. While the increase from 1923 to 1924 was 5 per cent, that between 1924 and 1925 was 10 per cent. Traffic fatalities are not only increasing in number but they are increasing in also going up.

In only one way has it been figured the accidents were decreasing and that was in proportion to the number of automobile registrations. On this basis there has been a decrease for several years but the 1925 figures show almost no lowering of those in 1924. It is difficult to find a reassuring note in the entire report.

This much is true; while the death rate for children under fifteen still presents one of the most serious aspects of the situation, it increased but 3 1-2 per cent in 1925 while the rate for adults went up 14 per cent. These facts seem to indicate that safety education in the schools is having an effect, a result that is abundantly corroborated by the individual experience of particular cities in which such work is being carried on.

It is because of the conditions revealed in these figures that safety campaigns are being conducted. Not until their terrible import is recognized to the point where remedial measures will be taken in every state and city will the upward curve be broken.

WHY SCHOOLS COST MORE

The rising cost of education has given many citizens a great deal to think about. Very naturally, too, because there is no public undertaking in which the citizen should be more interested, there is nothing which affects him more permanently than do the schools in his community. When he has reached an age at which they no longer touch him directly, they reach him through his children. Schools are the means by which an orderly social progress is maintained.

Whatever may be the story told by a comparison of education costs today with those of an earlier time, the situation is not properly understood unless it is kept in mind that the school today attempts to do definitely more than did the school of three or four decades ago. There is almost no comparison between what the school considered its duty to the child a generation ago and what it does for the boy and girl of today.

If it were nothing more than the fact that children today go to school until later in life than they did formerly, even that might be sufficient cause for what is mistakenly called the rising cost of education. As compared to the number of pupils who finished the eighth grade three decades ago who go this far at the present time is astonishingly large.

We direct all their learning and activities to the end that they may become not merely intelligent and understanding parents when this duty comes to them; we try to lay in the schools the proper foundation for intelligent citizenship on their part. Nor is our educational aim directed to giving these boys and girls something for the future. Much more than the school of yesterday did, does the school of today look after the present needs of the child.

A MAN'S INTENTIONS

Whatever a man's problem and handicaps there is a word that describes the one thing he can do and must do. That word is "Forward." The man who lets nothing stop his steady advance need fear no future obstacles. His motor is his will and no form can long chain and impoverish that. Success comes sometimes when least expected. It is missed sometimes because of lack of faith in its existence. But he who advances, whose watchword is "forward," is never surprised at prosperity. He welcomes it when it comes for he has long expected it and is prepared to meet its responsibilities.

Success is wholly a matter of mental attitude toward success. The half-hearted idea that it may work out never made a success of anything. Success comes from the determination at the beginning to be successful and then by being it. It isn't swelled-headedness to believe oneself bigger than anything which may stand in the way of success but to believe that it is necessary to success. Success is determined by determination and keeping a-going.

Goethe in his "Life and Character" said "Strictly speaking, everything depends upon a man's intentions."

Just Folks

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

Let me go through this day
Brave, true and tender;
Let me win, down the way
Something of splendor.

Let me not work in hate,
Greedy for treasure;
Lord, keep my pathway straight,
Square to the measure.

Surely one day I can
Stand to my labor;
Fair to my fellowman,
Fair to my neighbor.

Is it too much to ask
One day of beauty?

Strength for an honest task,
Courage for duty?

One day of friendly thought
One day of cleanness;
One day lived through with naught
Checked with meanness?

Grant me a day serene,
Well-lived and splendid;
Clean at the dawn, and clean
When it is ended.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES

Mrs. C. A.: "I have had a porcelain-topped table for only a year, yet it is covered with rings and marks which ruin the appearance of its finish. What will remove these marks?"

Answer: I am afraid that you did not know when you first bought the table, that you must never let the juice from acid fruits or vegetables touch the porcelain. Lemon juice, tomato juice, rhubarb juice etcetera have evidently eaten off the shiny surface, leaving the marred aspect you describe. There is nothing to be done now, to restore its former smooth shiny finish.

Mrs. H. K.: "Where can I buy the timbale irons you referred to recently in the column?"

Answer: At any large department store, in the kitchen supplies department. You neglected to enclose a stamp in your letter or I would have answered you personally. I cannot suggest the names of such stores in this column, as it would be advertising.

Bride: "What do you, personally, can in the way of fruits?"

Answer: Here are this summer's choices: All fruits and berries I prepare as for table use, then precook them a few minutes to shrink them before packing them (hot) in the warm sterilized jars. I add the hot sirup at once. This sirup I make by bringing to a boil one part sugar and three parts water mixed together. This I use for pineapples. When I can huckleberries, loganberries, raspberries, cherries, dewberries, blackberries and apricots I use a medium sirup made by bringing to the boiling point one part sugar and two parts water. Peaches to my mind, require a thick sirup made by boiling equal parts of water and sugar and I also use this sirup with gooseberries.

Mrs. S.: "When I scald tomatoes to remove their skins, I invariably get a soft tomato as a result. How can I keep them firm?"

Answer: Place the tomatoes in a pan, stand the pan in your sink, and add enough scalding water to cover them. Drain off this hot water at once, and add cold to cover. By this method you will not be troubled by softness.

East Side - West Side

—OF—

New York

By Jack O'Donnell

"One touch of nature makes the whole world kin."

It was at the world's busiest corner—Forty-second St. and Broadway—at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. And it was Wednesday—a matinee day. Taxicabs were fighting each other for a second's advantage in the slow moving traffic. Cops were yelling commands to timid or over-brave drivers. Pedestrians were weaving in and out, trying to cross the motorized thoroughfare.

Along came a farmer with a wagon-load of hay. The wagon was considerably older than the farmer and groaned under its heavy load. Back of the hay was one of the last of New York's horse-drawn vehicles—an old Victoria with a red top and a driver's box. Just as the hay wagon started forward with the West bound traffic a rear wheel threw up the sponge and crumpled, blocking traffic.

Motorists honked their horns; cabs cursed under their breath; taxi-drivers yelled insulting remarks at the poor farmer. Every body was angry. Even the pedestrians who had to walk around the load of hay. But in the rear was a happy horse. He just moved up to the hay and, spreading his front legs, began making this a broad-way holiday.

In a few minutes everybody was watching the horse attack the hay and forgetting his own or her own annoyance. A crowd gathered—as crowds will in New York—and cheered the old nag on. And the man on the box made no effort to interfere with his animals' meal. For twenty minutes, while the broken-down wagon waited for an emergency crew to drive up and shove it aside, the horse munched his hay and the crowd stood by to see that he got fair play.

A man next to me said: "Gosh! That takes me back to my kid days in the middle West. Gee, it's good to see a load of hay. I almost envy that horse!"

For several years Leon A. Friedman, erstwhile press agent for the Follies and now doing the gushing for George White's "Scandals," has been mystified by the number of requests he received for complimentary seats to the Follies coming from persons who, generally on the telephone, told him they were from Circleville, O.

And for the same number of years another Leon A. Friedman, brother of the famous saxophone king, Ted Lewis, of Circleville, O., has been wondering, on his infrequent visits to his old home town, why it was so many of his former friends were coldly, or not at all, to him, when he walked down Ohio St.

The other night both mysteries were cleared up when the two Leon A. Friedmans met at the home of a mutual friend down Greenwich Village way. When mist had cleared away Friedman, the press agent, poked his nose into the sleeve of his coat and laughed. "Well," he opined, "I guess you got the worst of this. All I did was to tell your friends nothing doing but it will take you a life-time to explain that you ain't me."

rather noisy in trains and charabancs and might give the stranger a contrary impression. The money has to be spent with some care lest it give out and the holiday-makers forced to return home prematurely. The great aim of those who participate in the "wakes" is to come home on the very last day—without a penny.

TAVERNS

In the early days when settlers by the thousands were coming into Ohio lands to establish homes, places of entertainment had to be provided for the newcomers as they went about over the territory and taverns were a necessity.

These "public houses of entertainment" did not exist without sharing the expense of the county government and the individual who sought to become a tavern keeper had to get a license from Common Pleas Court.

Licenses were issued Archibald Lowry and Griffith Foss, of Springfield, at the second meeting of the new court, August 4, 1803.

Peter Borders, tenant of the house where the county seat of justice was located, saw an opportunity for increasing his income by keeping a tavern. As the "Honourable Court" was finally convinced that such a "public" entertainment was necessary to the "public" service, and that Borders was a fit person to operate same, it accordingly granted him a license.

At the same meeting of the court in 1803, James Galloway, Sr., was appointed treasurer of the county. He served continuously until 1819.

By far the most important business transacted by the court was that of surveying and platting the site of the new town of Xenia. Joseph C. Vance was appointed director August 3, 1803, and gave the first bond ever given in the county as security of the performance of his duties.

For the services he performed according to bond, Vance received $49.25 for laying off the town of Xenia, finding chairmen, making plots and selling lots. The duties and emoluments arising from the position of director seemed to appeal to Vance and his services were demanded for the laying off of Urbana after Chapman County was organized in 1805.

She was selected as the most representative American girl in New Hampshire, receiving the American Youth reward. Miss Thompson, who is seventeen years old and pretty, admits that she is perhaps a "wee bit old fashioned." Her hair is not bobbed and she has not learned to Charleston. ## HEAVY TRACK MAY GREET FIRST DAY'S FAIR RACING PROGRAM

If predicted showers Tuesday materialize, the half-mile track at the Xenia Fairgrounds will be heavy and holding for the opening program on the three-day short ship circuit meet at the annual Greene County Fair Wednesday afternoon.

If the skies are clear and the sun shines the racing strip may be soggy as a result of the hard rains over the week-end and again Monday night.

The feature event on the opening program Wednesday, the 2:12 pace for the Greene County Hardware Co. $500 purse, will bring together a field of ten sterling pacers. Dorothy B. entry of R. W. Pitkins, Mt. Vernon, will rule as the likely favorite, although Silver Pointer, Jim Faulkner's good silver gray pacer, and Orion, of the stable of John W. Burt, Columbus, will not lack for backing.

Nominations for the 2:12 pace follow:

Bambler, by Walter Cochato, D. Hensley, Dayton, Ind.; Orion, by R. W. Pitkins, Mt. Vernon; John W. Burt, Columbus; Charley C. b. g., by Corporal Charles, Jay Douglas, Oxford; Silver Pointer, g. g., by Sidney Pointer, James Faulkner, Xenia; Myrtle Simmons, b. m., by King Simmons, West and Turney, Wauseon; Dorothy B. b. m., by Boyd Worthy, and Peter Brown, by Colonel Brown, R. W. Pitkins, Mt. Vernon; Harvey Forbes, Harry Wood, Mechanicburg; Blanche K. b. m., by Drusus, M. G. Knoblock, Massillon; and Brook Volo, b. g., Peter Volo, F. A. Cares, Fremont.

The 2:25 pace for a $300 purse for which twenty horses have been named as starters, will also absorb some attention. In the event of a heavy track this race may be ridden by scratches. W. M. an entry of C. H. Haley, Kenton, looks as the probable winner. Entry list as follows:

Gabe Albin, br. g., by Binjolia,

Foster Bros., Springfield, Rudy Cochato, b. m., by Cochato, Oscar Fenner, Plain City; W. M. b. g., by Malcomb Forbes, C. G. Haley, Kenton; General Admiral, blk. g., by The Admiral, F. Mitchell, Hilliard.

The 2:20 trot for a $300 purse, middle event to be run on Wednesday's card, has the largest entry list of the meet, twenty-eight.

It may be found necessary to divide this race into two divisions unless a number of horses are scratched. The entry list follows:

The Worthy, by The Exponent, Geo. Teare, Cleveland; Axoline, b. m., by Ortolan Axworthy, Frank Yenney, Pliska; Miss Oille Bell, ch. m., by Peter O'Donna, Omer VanKirk, Dayton; Dorothy Bergen, b. m., by Buggett, M. Williamson, Kenton; A. Z. s. g., by Allie Johnson, Garrett Wikoff, Findlay.

The first race will start promptly at 2:30 p. m., Daylight Saving time.

QUOIT TEAMS WILL COMPETE AT FAIR

At least four and probably five match teams are expected to compete in the annual inter-county quoit tournament at the Greene County Fair this week.

The tournament will be run off Wednesday and Thursday, commencing each morning at 10 a. m., and will be governed by the rules of the Xenia Quoit Club.

Any organized quoit club is eligible to compete in this tourney.

Centerville, Xenia, Shrine, Eastwood, Riverdale and N. C. R. Clubs of Dayton, are possible entrants.

Each club is to be represented by two or more players. Purse of $25 will be divided into three moneys, First, $12.50; second, $7.50 and third, $5.

Xenia has an excellent chance to win first money again this year. The local team has always cut in for a large share of the purse and is confident of duplicating this year.

RESERVES TO OPEN THREE GAME SERIES AT HARSHMANVILLE

Xenia Reserves will go to Harshmanville to meet the Harshman nine in the first of a probable three game series Sunday afternoon, the contest starting at 2:30 p. m.

Fans are looking forward to the game with interest as there is great rivalry between the two outfits.

Two former Harshman players are now members of the Xenia team. They are "Jug" Conley and Chet Cyphers, who are playing a prominent role in the success of the locals this season. Cyphers is the team's mainstay in the box and Conley is holding down second in a manner that leaves nothing to be desired. In addition both players are pounding the ball at a 400 rate.

Cyphers has developed into a first class pitcher and will test his assortment of curves against his former team mates Sunday. He will be opposed on the mound by Glass, who was formerly a Reserve hurler but since becoming a member of the Harshman team this season, has easily won a majority of his games.

PATRONS URGED TO SEE CLUB EXHIBIT

Patrons at the Greene County Fair are urged to attend the County Boys' and Girls Beef Calf Club exhibit, which is being revived this year, by sponsors of the organization.

Each of the thirty-six members of the club are exhibiting their animals at the Fair. The exhibit is located near the Art Hall and is a big drawing card for Fair crowds.

The club did not exhibit last year but interest in the organization has been increased as evidenced by the show.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

ROSILYN RIDGEWAY learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an over-worked little drudge in her father's inn.

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother.

FLORENCE RIDGEWAY, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chose the easiest way out. Rosilyn loving her husband, knows that he is still in love with Lydia Harbroke, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying

STEVIE VAN VORST, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Ridgeway. She is in Paris when the news reaches her of Landis' marriage and she hastens back to the United States. With her goes Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she suggests that they ask the young Ridgeways to dinner.

She and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby through an apparent misunderstanding Rosilyn and Briscoe will be left alone together, while she will be with her beloved Landis.

Landis, finding himself alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more. Some hours later that evening, Rosilyn who is bewildered to find herself spending the evening in the company of Rupert Briscoe, sees her husband dancing with Lydia—in his eyes a look of rapture. She believes he has seen her but is too rude—or ashamed—to speak. Briscoe asks her to go on to a night-club, and in a mood of recklessness she consents.

At the night-club, Rosilyn under the influence of some wine begins to sparkle and jest.

Briscoe, on bidding Rosilyn goodnight, calls her the Little Lady of His Dreams.

In Paris Stephen Van Vorst is lonely for Lydia. He is on the way to see Marietta, a dancer, a one-time sweetheart of Briscoe's who, he hopes will be able to help him.

Van Vorst finds Marietta weeping over Briscoe's desertion. He tells her to buck up and come along for a ride with him—he wants to talk over a plan for him.

Van Vorst offers to pay all Marietta's expenses to live in New York in style, if she will "wamp" Landis Ridgeway away from his old flame Lydia, who, Van Vorst suspects is even now winning Landis' heart over again. Marietta agrees to this arrangement, and they plan to cross the Channel by aeroplane.

NEAR DEATH

But nervous tremors assailed Marietta next morning when Van Vorst's car deposited them at the aerodrome, and a uniformed official led them to the big biplane that was waiting, like some giant insect, to carry them across the Channel.

Behind the triplex-glass windshield sat the two pilots, leather-helmeted.

Mechanics ran about. One fellow was working at the stiff propeller.

"All aboard," announced the uniformed official.

There was a roaring sound of engines as Van Vorst took the reluctant Marietta by the elbow and conducted her to the narrow doorway leading to the machine's interior.

"I'm terrified," she whimpered. He almost pushed her up the steel gangway, and so inside.

The gangway was withdrawn, the door slid shut, and the mechanic drew the block from one of the wheels, and the machine veered to port, just like a drunken taxicab.

"Gosh! This is awful!" Marietta flung herself into a wicker chair and stared desperately through the long windows, while the roar of the engine grew louder and still louder.

"Bumpety! Bumpety! Bump!" "Oh, heavens! We're rising!" She closed her eyes, a shudder.

"You're all right," Van Vorst sat down near her. "Look at the speed-indicator! We're doing fifty!"

The girl opened her eyes to see the grass fall away beneath them.

"The earth's dropping! It's frightful! I can't bear it!" She pressed a hand to her throat, as though suffocating.

"Don't be silly!"

But the loud roar of the propeller, and the still louder noise of the engine, almost drowned their voices.

The neat cabin seemed to turn, to sway.

We're banking from the wind now," bellowed her companion.

The machine levelled itself. She breathed again.

"Look over the side!" commanded Van Vorst.

She did so. Far below lay Paris, like a child's toy village.

Then: "Heavens! What's that? We're sinking!" cried she, terrified again.

"An air-pocket," shouted her companion, close to her ear.

The very floor seemed to be dropping out of the machine!

Then steadiness again! She could see the blue struts of the wings, the bright blue petrol tank on either side.

"Curious how one doesn't realize a sense of speed!" The only thing that seemed to move was the little indicator needle. "We must be over five thousand up by now!"

Van Vorst felt a sense of power, of patronage. How nervous and how ignorant were all women!

"Feel all right? Mustn't touch champagne in the air, m'dear. It's fatal!"

She turned nervously to him.

"There's a storm somewhere."

My head aches!"

The minutes passed. The machine was rising, rising, higher and higher.

Then suddenly it staggered drunkenly. Marietta screamed.

"The indicator! We're doing over a hundred miles an hour! What's happened?"

Again that awful stagger. Then a sudden corkscrew, violent, nauseating.

The great machine rolled and pitched, then did another corkscrew.

"What's happened? Quick!" the girl sprang up, face livid, eyes staring out of her head.

Van Vorst gripped her by the arm and caught her as she fell.

"Keep still!" His heart beat suffocatingly. He was as afraid as she, sensing catastrophe.

Then, as the engine conked and the machine nose-dived towards the earth, he felt that certain death was rushing towards them, and no human power could save them!

Marietta slumped in an inert heap against his arm.

The man was sick with nauseating terror. In one moment, two or three, the black wings of death would compass them. Hurling to eternity, without preparation, without time for appeal to the Unknown, what awaited such as he?

He did not want to die. He was afraid to die.

The biplane corkscrewed. Suddenly he heard the rhythmic beat of the engine once again. Thank God for that! Up there in the cockpit, the pilot, every nerve a-strain, was struggling to get the great machine under control. She pitched. She rolled. The wind buffeted her unmercifully.

And then—miraculously—she righted herself, and the tractor-screw hummed reassuringly.

Van Vorst withdrew his supporting arm from the unconscious form of his companion, and hands shaking as though wit ague, wrew from the pocket of his coat a brandy flask.

He took a long drink. His heart beat normally again. Breathing was easier.

To have so near death—how terrible!

He rose unsteadily, laying Marietta at full length on the seat. She would come to, any moment. Till then, let merciful oblivion continue.

Tomorrow: When Red Lips Win.

PHONE DRIVES MARSHAL FROM OFFICE

The village of Yellow Springs was without a town marshal Tuesday as a result of the resignation of George A. Baker presented to the village council at its regular meeting Monday night.

Baker, in his resignation, declared "the job took too much of his time from business." The position pays only $100 per year.

The resignation was accepted by council but no successor has been named. Until the vacancy can be filled, Traffic Officer W. E. Chapman will temporarily assume the duties of marshal, it is announced.

Installation of a telephone in the marshal's home is blamed for the increased business and indirectly responsible for the resignation. Village council recently voted to install the telephone and since that time, Baker has been kept constantly busy answering phone calls.

AMERICAN AUTOS INCREASE IN SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 3.—American motor cars are helping to motorize Sweden's highroad traffic at break-neck speed and the total Swedish import of automobiles and accessories during 1925 shows a jump of over thirty per cent over the preceding year, according to official reports published here.

Of the total sum of $10,612,000 spent for foreign cars in 1925 over nine millions were paid for cars of American makes.

FISHER BODIES

GENERAL MOTORS

LOOK AT THE NEW CARS AND SEE—BODY BY FISHER

The new car announcements of General Motors have swept Fisher into the greatest eminence in motor car history.

Everywhere you see the emblem—Body by Fisher. In all price classes, it is the inescapable badge of quality. The leaders, such as Cadillac, Buick, Chevrolet, Oakland, Oldsmobile and Pontiac, all display as one of their proudest assets the symbol—Body by Fisher.

It is their assurance of public satisfaction—in safety, in charm of line, in beauty of color and appointment, in comfort and convenience.

Fisher—the greatest body builder in the world—stands head and shoulders above all others in quality. The new General Motors cars all help to prove Fisher leadership.
